—When Adam asked Eve if she would be his bride, she looked up and down and sighed and shed. And she let him take hold of her lily white hand, (this is history now, you must understand) then she said in a voice that was dulcely low, “I must take time to think ‘tis so sudden you know.” And that's how that started. When they had been married a few years or so, then Adam told Eve, “We're invited to go to dinner with some friends down in Nod.” (“Tis truly auth'ntic, although it sounds odd”) Eve replied with a sorrowful air, “I can't go don't you see, I have nothing to wear.” And that is how that started.

—The London, England, Chronicle, says that “Dad” and “daddy” were well known in that country in the sixteenth century; “apa” did not come in, borrowed from abroad, until the seventeenth century was well advanced. Florio, at the end of the former century defined the Italian “papa” as the first word that children are taught to call their father, as ours say “dad” “daddy” or “bab.” “Dad” seems to be the commoner to mankind of the two. Nausica in the Odyssey calls her father “papa phil,” dear papa; but Greek had “tata” also, and Welsh has “tat” and Irish “daid.”

—The intense cold of this winter seems to have affected the birds who remain in the north during the winter season. The scarcity of these feathered songsters has become a matter of comment among lovers of birds, as for the past month scarcity a blue jay, cardinal ju co, nuthatch, sap sucker or titmouse, which winter in this part of the State, has been seen, while the English sparrows the very hard-fest of bird creation, are only to be seen in very limited numbers. Nearly all the species here mentioned are keeping in very close quarters owing to the unusual cold weather which has prevailed.
